Therapist Had Pleaded Guilty to Breaking Neck of Miss E. W. Lehman.

SECOND INDICTMENT AGAINST HIM STANDS

Unlikely to Be Tried Now on Charge of Performing Illegal Operation.

Louis W. Hoffman, chiropractor and physiotherapist, who pleaded guilty to charge of second-degree murder in nnection with the death of 24 year-old Eleanor W. Lehman, a typist, in his office in the Victor Building or March 3, was sentenced yesterday by Justice Siddons, in Criminal Court, to serve 30 years in prison. accused was originally held for manslaughter, but later was indicted on a charge of first-degree murder William E. Leahy, of Washington, and for Hoffman, negotiated with District Attorney Leo A. Rover, and the latter agreed to accept a plea of guilty to second-degree murder.

The indictment charged that Hoff-man deliberately broke Miss Lehman's neck to cover up the alleged illegal operation, but Hoffman, in spite of his plea of guilty, has insisted that he had no intention whatever of deliberately killing the woman.

Story of Eyewitness.

The case was referred to Probation Officer Amos A. Steele for investigation, and the result was that Hoffman failed to satisfactorily reconcile his plea of guilty with his declaration that he did not deliberately kill the girl.

Miss Lehman was taken to Hoffman's office by Mrs. Dotty King, otherwise known as Mrs. Dolores Monroe. It was the statements of the latter, after she was brought back to Washington from New Jersey, that caused Mr. Rover to insist upon an indictment charging first-degree murder instead of man-slaughter.

drs. King accused auffman of having She was an eyewitness, and she also stated that Hoffman had threatened her if she told all she knew.

Indictment Still Pending.

Mr. Leahy asked that the minimum sentenced of twenty years for second-degree murder be imposed, but Justice Siddons declared that such a term would not satisfy the ends of justice.

Hoffman was also indicted on a charge of performing an illegal operation, but it is hardly likely that he will ever be brought to trial in that case.

Assistant District Attorneys William H. Collins and M. Pearl McCall presented the murder case to the grand jury.

Hoffman accepted the sentence stolldly.

TRACES OF DRUG FOUND IN STOMACH OF PROCTOR little thought of helther near or far.

Chemist's Analysis Discloses Victim of Electrocution Had Taken Sleep-Inducing Pills.

GIVEN BY JAIL PHYSICIAN

Traces of a sleep inducing drug were found in specimens taken from the stomach of John Cline Proctor, 19-year-old murderer, who was executed Friday, late yesterday by the District chemist. The chemist began his analysis of the specimens four days ago and reported his finding last evening to Deputy Coroner Joseph D. Rogers.

It is believed that the youth obtained the drug pills from unwitting jail Jhysicians and saved them. Pills were given to Proctor, according to Maj. William L. Peak, jail superintendent, by the physicians when he complained of not being able to sleep. Shortly after 10 o'clock Thursday night, Proctor talked with George Thompson, colored, convicted murderer, and declared he had some pills, which he had hidden in a tobacco bag, and intimated that he would attempt suicide after making a confession of his part in the murder of Patrolman Leo W. Miss Lehman was employed by a local film agency, and she is supposed to have met the father of her unborn child at the agency. The man was questioned by Mr. Rover, but he denied that he had anything to do with Miss Lehman going to Hoffman's office.

It appears that Mrs. King heard of Miss Lehman's condition, and out of sympathy for her and by reason of threats of suicide which Miss Lehman is alleged to have made, she took Miss Lehman to Hoffman's office.

A few moments alter that aguard, the murmured sleepily about making a confession and lapsed into a coma from which he never recovered. He was carried to the electric chair on a stretcher. Dr. Rogers performed an autopsy on Proctor's body the night of the execution and this established that the youth had died as the result of the electrocution. Houston, Tex., June 26 (A.P.).—The availability of George L. Berry, of Tennessee, for the Democratic vice presidential nomination was laid before Smith leaders tonight by a group of labor men headed by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

After the conference, Green declared that "of course the Smith people could cratic party, who not so many years ago in Terre Haute found himself in the ignominious position of having to write editorials for a Republican newspaper, also came into his own in so far as the radio audience was con-cerned, for never before having been Asked if Berry had been assured any substantial support from sections other than New York, Green said he understood a block of between 350 and 400 votes in Middle Western and Southern States were ready to be cast for the Tennessee man.

The labor leaders composing the delegation which called on the Smith men included President Green, Frank Morrison, Secretary of the American Federation of Labor: Martin F. Ryan, vice president of the federation's executive committee: James O'Connell, president of the metal trades department of the federation, and Edward J. Bowers Talks for Hour.

Including the time consumed by demonstrations and applause the speech of Keynoter Bowers last night at Houston occupied one hour almost to the minute, as compared to one hour and a quarter consumed by Keynoter Fess at Kansas City.

In the beginning of his speech, Mr. Bowers, showing traces of nervousness, spoke so rapidly and vigorously that he was followed with considerable difficulty on the radio, but soon settled down, with the result that his words came through very distinctly.

With the possible exception of the McNab speech nominating Secretary Hoover, the oratorical effort of Bowers, who, despite his great voice, is small in stature, resembling Will Hays, aroused nore enthusiasm than anything heard at Kansas City. In fact, its delivery furnished a veritable field day of Democratic demonstrations.

At the beginning of the evening session Announcer McNamer erported that four Senate pages who had driven all the way from Washington had arrived safely, although the machine in which they were traveling was "somewhat decrepit."

Berry is a labor leader of long standing. He is at present head of the Printing Pressmen's International Union and has been a vice commander of the American Legion.

President Green disclosed that a number of other vice presidential possibilities were brought forward by the Smith leaders during the conference, including Robinson, of Arkansas; Barkley, of Kentucky, and George, of Georgia. The labor federation president said both Barkley and Robinson would be acceptable to them, but that their real choice was Berry.

Text of Reed Assault

"Shorily before coming to the Unit-ed States from Great Britain, Mr. Hoover had assisted in the creation of a single purchasing agency for the allies. That agency—was created for the purpose of holding down prices of American farm products. Mr. Hoover arrived on April 3, 1917, and at once sought power to keep prices down in a production of the purpose of the prices and the prices are advected. our domestic market and advocated the organization of a single cooperating agency and a combination of that agency with the purchasing agency of the aliles. It was undoubtedly his pur-pose to fix prices on farm products for the benefit of the British and allied buyers

"As soon as he gained power, he carried out that exact scheme. He compelled our farmers to sell at that forced price. The result was that the farmers during the war sold at the low level fixed by Hoover but were obliged to buy at the high level fixed by the war. After the war, the Republicans raised the tariff for the express purpose of maintaining the war level of prices on manufactured goods. They compelled the farmer to continue to buy at that high level. At the same time he was forced to sell at very low prices on the bankrupt market of Europe. The inevitable result has been the impoverishment of the farmers of America."

Farm Relief Plank Is to Be Made Satisfactory to Agriculturists.

CORN-BELT'S VIEWS GO BEFORE COMMITTEE

Spending Cost of Surplus Control Over Commodity Aided. Is Favored.

By ARTHUR EVANS.

Special to The Washington Post. Houston, Tex., June 26.—"The winaing of the West"—the West being the chplace and backbone of the Repub-en party, was the dominant idea en the Democratic platform makers went to work tonight on the farm plank. All was harmony. There was a prodigious amount of conversation, but no controversy.

The word was that the plank is to be made satisfactory to leaders of organ-ized agriculture. The Democrats are deized agriculture. The Democrats are de-claring that they are desirous of going the limit to help the farmer. Inci-dentally, too, of course, they alm to help along the corn belt revolt. One re-port was that the plank would be based on the Federal Reserve System, a plan for handling crop surpluses organized on lines akin to the Federal Reserve. Leaders of corn belt farm organiza-tions laid suggestions before the party chiefs, but did not reduce them to a tentative plank, leaving that to the res-colutions committee. The inner circle exuded word that a farm declaration is taking form that will be satisfactory to the free trade South which still sticks to ancient party doctrines and to the ancient party doctrines and to the lustrialized fast, as well as to the clultural West where Democrats take

A pledge for a special session of Congress in March to be devoted to farm legislation in case Gov. Smith is elected is being strongly favored in the early deliberations of the committee. As to McNary-Haugen and the equalization fee, the sentiment of the Democratic party pledges its led in every proper way to the development of cooperative marketing associations alone can not impose upon their members anyhow.

The question of what the party is to say on how the cost of handling crop surpluses is to be distributed is the chief item to be threshed out. Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota and other corn belt States are receiving much attention on this.

Michael Igoe, Illinois member of the the Democratic party always has been opposed."

Michael Igoe, Illinois member of the resolutions committee, is presenting the views of the Illinois Agricultural Association, which is represented here by Frank Barton and R. A. Cowles. This is one of the strongest farm organizations in the West, and its president, Earl C. Smith, led the fight for the corn belt minority plank on the floor of the Republican convention at Kansas City. The suggestions of the Illinois Agricultural Association, which epitomize largely the views of other Western farm groups, are that Federal legislation is necessary if farmers are to be enabled to handle their crops "so that the price of the surplus may not determine the price of the whole crop."

The 1924 Democratic platform sought such legislation. The suggestions of the farm groups cover the tariff item thus:
"It is a fundamental principle of the Democratic party that such tariffs levied must not discriminate against any industry, class or section. Therefore the party pledges that in its tariff revision it will insist upon rates of

The idea at issue is that of placing the cost of surplus control upon the entire commodity benefited instead of upon only the members of the cooperatives or other agencies handling the crop surplus. The Democrats say a scheme can be easily devised that will avoid the constitutional objections raised by Senator Borah and others, and they will dwell upon the idea that Washington has given the farmer no substitute for the twice vetoed McNary-Haugen bill.

STAMPEDE TO SMITH NOW ON; FIRST BALLOT VICTORY TALKED

On this the Illinois Agricultural Association suggestion is:
"The eight years of Republican administration have impoverished agriculture. That party's pledge to take all steps necessary to bring back a balraced condition between agriculture and other industries was broken. The policy frankly declared by Republican spokesmen, that American farmers hat American farmers out additional millions of farmers." Two Submitted Drafts, One draft submitted contains the nan to any other candidate of Illinois, "The Democratic party directs attention to the fact that it was a Democratic Congress under a Democratic President that enacted our Federal farm loan act, laying the foundation for the entire rural credit structure, which has assisted farmers to weather the shock of the policles of the two Republican administrations."

One proposed farm plank was submitted by Gov. Wm. J. Bulow, of South Dakota. It gives the Western view as follows:

nan to any other candidate of Illinois. So for second place on the ticket. The Mississippi delegation is going to vote solidly for Smith after casting a complimentary vote for Harrison. The switch to Smith is to be made after the completion of the roll call, but before the result is announced.

Mississippi is a concrete example of the reversal of attitude toward Smith that has taken place in many parts of the South, Months ago the Southerner: were rabidly opposed to the nomination of a wet and a Catholic, Mississippi was conspicuously of this frame of mind. The Mississippi delegation was strongly anti-Smith when it was elected.

Ohio Ready to Jump.

When the Ohioans heard that the Hoosiers were negotiating for a front seat on the band wagon, they were spurred to unwonted activity. They, too, sought out Mr. Brennan with representations that they could be just about twice as useful as Indiana in putting Smith over on the first ballot. It was merely a mathematical proposition. In Indiana there were 25 out of 30 ready to jump to Smith, but in Ohio there were 46 out of 48 rearing to go.

The fact that the Ohio delegation is instructed for former Senator Pomerene for first choice and for former National Chairman George White for second choice would be no impediment, the Ohio leaders said Both Pomerene and White, who are friendly to Smith, would withdraw, and the switch to Smith could be made on the first ballot.

Reed Candidacy on Rocks.

Within 48 hours the candidacy of Senator Reed, of Missouri, has gone completely on the rocks and the remnant of McAdoo drys led by Dan Roper and George Fort Milton, has thrown up the sponge. In parts of the South, where the antagonism to Smith because of his religion and his views on prohibition has been most bitter, a different feeling seems to prevail now that Smith is destined to be the well-nigh unanimous choice of the party. Even in South Carolina, originally solid against Smith, there are now eight of the eighteen delegates who will vote for Smith after the complimentary vote for Justice Watts.

The justice is now the Democratic candidate for Governor of Illinois. If he were nominated for Vice President it would be necessary for him to withdraw se a candidate for governor. (Associated Press Staff Writer). Houston, Tex., June 26 (A.P.).—Confident that all that can be done has been done to insure the nomination of Gov. Smith, his New York leaders sat down today to enjoy the convention of their fellow Democrats. At the 29-min-ute afternoon session the New Yorkers

It was understood that a New York spokesman, probably Franklin D. Roosevelt, would make clear during the convention that New York wishes every State opposed to Gov. Smith for the nomination to have an opportunity to record this opposition. On this account it had been suggested that a first ballot nomination was not desired by the representatives of the governor at the convention.

Open Mind on Second Place.

After the first session of the con-vention, Mr. Van Namee said, nothing had happened to cause him to revise his earlier statement.

"I would like to emphasize," he said "that New York is open minded on the subject of a vice presidential nominee. The entire situation is so favorable for success in November that none of us could permit ourselves to think of would permit ourselves to think of usurping the privilege of every State to have a voice in this important nomination. Short-lived as it was, the outbreak showed the exuberant confidence of the friends of the Governor of New York. A little leadership would have started a parade about the aisles, probably led by the California delegation which holsted a picture of the governor as its state standard. As it was the Smith delegates entered the convention hall bearing in mind the word from their leaders that it might be impossible to prevent the nomination of their candidate on the first ballot, an eventuality which the governor's friends have said they wished to avoid for reasons of party harmony.

Coats Shed for Comfort.

Coats Shed for Comfort.

The convention make-up was obviously in fine fettle for the opening session. Coats were shed for comfort, although within the new hall arrangements had been perfected to carry a constant supply of fresh air through the roomy spaces to alleviate the effects of the beating sun without.

There was music, handshaking, laugher, shrill "rebel" yells, and a lot of good-natured banter. The Jalifornians seemed to lead in it all, at one time insisting that Alabams join their cheering for Gov. Smith. Alabams, instructed against the governor, smiled good naturedly and kept its poise.

As for the official session itself, it was merely something that had to be endured to get the convention properly under way. All of the 16,000 who attended knew there were to be no political freworks and for this reason they amused themselves as best they could.

Chairman Shaver received respectful attention after he had pounded for it for about fifteen minutes. He then turned to Pat Haltigan, thunder-voiced reading clerk of the House of Repre-sentatives, to read the call for the convention. There were a few more for-malities and then Mayor Holcombe, of Houston, speaking with a typical South-er accent, got the delegates enthused with a description of Southern hos-pitality and a prediction that the convention would nominate the next Pres-ident of the United States.

TEXT OF CLAUDE G. BOWERS' KEYNOTE SPEECH STUDEBAKER'S

The text of Claude G. Bowers' keynote address to the Democratic national convention follows:

The American democracy has mobilized today to wage a war of extermination against privilege and pillage. We prime our guns against autocracy and bureaucracy. We march against that centralization which threatens the liberties of the people. We fight for the Republic of the fatners, and for the recovery of the covenant from the keeping of a caste and class. We battle for the honor of the Nation, besmirched and bedraggled by the most brazen and shameless carnival of corruption that ever blackened the reputation of a decent and self-respecting people. We stand for the spirit of the pre-amble of the declaration that is made a mockery; for the bill of rights that is ignored; for the social and economic justice which is refused, for the sovereign rights of States that are denied; in the people who built it by their bravery and cemented it with their blood. We do not underestimate the enemy. The little gilded group that now owns and controls the Government to the people who built it by their bravery and cemented it with their blood. The little gilded group that now owns and controls the Government to many the people who built it by their bravery and cemented the will be people and pillage it throws off the procession of the following the leadership of Hamilton; and now after 8 years of successful privilege and pillage it throws off the Lincebina mask. It could hardly seep the Lincebn mask on its face and sinclair's money in its cheet.

Thus at Kansas City, where they dramatized the issue, it was not Lincebn, but Hamilton who rode a gested a recess until 7 o'clock tonight.

Apprently the leaders thought 7:30 would be better, and Chairman Shaver called for a vote on the latter proposition, announced its passage with a bank of the gavel and left the stand.
The crowd, however, was slow to make its departure. The two bands, including one dressed in red shirts and ten-gallon hats, led by a girl on horseback, played as long as any one was left in the hail, "The Old Gray Mare," "Dixle," "Yankee Doodle," "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here" and other familiar melodies sharing equal honors. Both bands refrained from sounding the war song of the Smith men, "The Sidewalks of New York."
All of the notables who usually gather at Democratic conventions were to hand. In addition Mrs. Woodrow Wilson occupied a box seat, accompanied by Mrs Jesse H. Jones, whose husband brought the convention to his home city. In a box not far distant sat Mrs. Alfred E. Smith, accompanied by the secretary. Neither Mrs. Wilson nor Mrs. Smith were generally recognized by the crowd and were able to enjoy the show without centering attention upon themselves.

Two Political Schools.

For 40 years the party in power has conjured with the name of Lincoln while following the leadership of Hamilton; and now after B years of successful privilege and pilinge it throws off the Lincolnian mask. It could hardly keep the Lincoln mask on its face and Sinclair's money in its chest.

Thus at Kansas City, where they dramatized the issue, it was not Lincoln, but Hamilton who rode at the head of the procession.

Thus they frankly base their policies on the political principles of Hamilton;

Houston, Tex., June 26.—Three women were in the spotlight of Democracy today at the opening session of the convention.

One was happy and hopeful. She was the wife of the man who expects to be the thirty-first President of the United States.

One was busy and businesslike. She was the daughter of the man who just missed being Democratic presidential nominee not so many years ago.

The trio were, of course, Mrs. Al Smith, Mrs. Woodrow Wilson and Mrs. Genevieve Clark Thomson.

Mrs. Smith sat in box No. 78 between Mrs. John Glynn, her sister-in-law, and Miss Rose Paderick, her secretary. Behind her sat the young Arthur Smith, Al Smith, jr., and Catherine, the bride, and her husband. Francis Quillinan. The fan that Mrs. Smith swayed back and forth in her hand fluttered across a shoulder bouquet of lilies of the valley which Dr. and Mrs. Henry Mcskowitz had sent to her with the message. Woodrow Wilson's widow was, although she may not have known it, the storm center of a quarrel over a breakfast and a bunch of orchids.
Four local chapters of the D. A. R. got up a breakfast for Mrs. Wilson and, so report has it, invited the Colonial Dames to send two delegates to the breakfast. Then the D. A. R. asked the Colonial Dames to chip in and help pay for the expensive orchids which were to be given to Mrs. Wilson. The Colonial Dames thought that was taxation without representation, but

The Colonial Dames thought that was taxation without representation, but harmony was restored, and the orchids were bought and paid for.

The third woman in the center of things today was Mrs. James Thomson, national committeewoman from Louisians, and daughter of the late Champ Clark. A girl just out of school, she first entered politics at the convention which almost, gave the nomination to her father, and which did start the quarrel between Clark and William Jennings Bryan. Mrs. Thomson, a very handsome woman, is so active in politics now that there is talk of her succeeding Emily Newell Blair as vice chairman, although the more likely successors will be either Mrs. Bernice Pyke, of Ohio, or Mrs. Florence Farley, of Kansas.

When Bryan and Clark fell out, the quarrel cast its shadow on their daugh-ters. And this convention looked with interest on the meeting of Geneview Clark Thomson and Ruth Bryan Owen, recent victor in the Democratic congressional primary at Miami, Fls. But the daughter of Commoner did not come to this meeting.

Among those who sat on the platform today was Mrs. Josephus Daniels, all in black.

Somebody remarked they had seen her lunching with Mr. and Mrs. Will-lam Allen White.

Two women doctors officially, but not professionally, at the convention are on opposite sides of the medicomoral prohibition question.

"I am a strong dry," said Dr. Jennie Califas, national committeewoman from Nebraska.

"I am a wet, and I don't believe in any dry plank," said Dr. Margaret Burgund, delegate at large from Washington State.

One hotel chef is gravely concerned over the high cost of dryness since he computed that the national woman's committee on law enforcement dry breakfasters consumed 90 gallons of coffee at one sitting.

Gov. Fuller Bans Talk of Senate Candidacy

Boston, June 26 (A.P.).—Gov. Alvan T. Fuller today requested that his name be not brought before the Massachustests Republican State convention as he walked out on the speaker's platform, the delegates rising and cheering him.

The speaker plunged immediately more an attack upon the Republican party, and it seemed as though the cries of the delegates would raise the roof as he declared that Democracy fought for the honor of the Nation. "bemirred and bedraggled by the most braten and shameless carnival of corruption that ever blackened the reputation of a decent and self-respecting people."

Wednesday, June 27, 1928. THE KEYNOTE SPEECH.

peaker is not an easy one to fulfill. He must, of course, damn the enemy and he should, if ossible, point the way to his party. He is given both liberty and license in emphasizing the shortcomings of the opposition but in charting the party's future he must proceed by indirection, for it is not within the province of the keynoter to determine the issues upon which he and his colleagues shall face the country. Such bearings steer a course toward generalities and the shallows of verbiage where logic can not always follow.

Claude Bowers, who sounded the keynote for the Democrats at Houston, used a broad brush in condemning the record of the Republicans in office, but his advice to the Democrats was that they should return to Jeffersonian fundamentals. Mr. Bowers got no nearer than the revolutionary period in any constructive suggestions which the Democratic delegates might put to use. Only in his attacks on the Republican party were such things as the tariff and the farm problem mentioned and the word prohibition is not found from one end of his speech to the other. Mr. Bowers has spoken much more freely in the course of his editorials in the Evening World than he did from the speaker's stand at Houston.

The Democratic party will have difficulty in making the distinction which Mr. Bowers drew between the two parties. For his own puroses the keynote speaker placed the Hamilonian stamp upon the Republican party of today, and said that it was the duty of the Democrats to go back to Jeffersonian traditions in their campaign this fall. Following the line of reasoning which Mr. Bowers sugrests leads to confusion. Republicans and Democrats can no longer be separated in any such elemental fashion. Times have changed and with them the political faiths of the people. 'Hamilton wanted to wipe out the boundary lines of States," said Mr. Bowers, "and Jefferon was the champion of the sovereign powers." The parallel seems strange when tendered to a party which has long since abandoned the doctrine of State's rights. There are more ardent champions of the sovereign powers of the States in the Republican party than can be found under Democratic leadership. Again tion has been completed, and if luck favors Mr. Bowers said: "Hamilton would have in- her to a reasonable extent she will conclude jected governmental activities into all the affairs of men: and Jefferson laid it down as an axiom of freedom that 'that government is best which governs least." There is, however, nothing in the recent history of the Democratic party to indicate the least agreement with Jefferson on this score.

It is, therefore, not a clear call which Mr. Bowers has issued to the Democratic party. There must be a division more modern and less involved than the one that he suggests. A Jeffersonian battle cry will have but little meaning unless it is translated into terms of the immediate present. The spirit of Jefferson, Jackson and Wilson, all three of whom Mr. Bowers invoked, is not an issue. It is to the future and not the past that the Democratic party must appeal.

VETERANS CHEATED:

Gen. Pershing is entitled to the thanks of all veterans of the World War for calling attention to the violation of the law that gives preference to veterans in filling Government positions. The bureau chiefs making appointments are cometimes forced to bow to congressional influence that pays no attention to the law. Thus veterans qualified in every way are shoved side to make room for job-seekers who gain the favor of members of Congress.

World War veterans are warranted in organizing a machine that will put a stop to this fraud. Decency and justice require that all sitions shall be filled by war veterans, provided they meet the law's requirements. Discrimination against the Nation's defenders is peculiarly base ingratitude, since it not only gnores heroic service, but actually goes out of its way to work hardship upon men who deserve first place in the country's affections.

The veterans are still young men and have not taken control of national affairs, as they an and will do in time. They can throw out of office members of Congress who wrong them, and they can exert more influence upon Washington bureaucrats than members of Congress can bring to bear. More active teamrk among the veterans is called for. Those who are prosperous owe it to their less fortunate buddles to consolidate the strength of the American Legion, so that no veteran shall suffer injustice at the hands of any Government official. The law giving preference to veterans is approved by the American people as an expression of gratitude to their defenders. Any one, high or low, who violates that law should be kicked out forthwith.

LEAGUE STAYS BURIED.

The Democratic party will not be pursued this year, according to reports from Houston, by the ghost of the League of Nations. Little has been heard in the preliminary deliberations of this once burning issue. Prohibition, farm relief and the tariff have been on many tongues, but talk of assuming a place at the council table of Geneva has been strangely lacking. What the Democrats classed the paramount issue of the campaign of 1920 and the major principle in the election of 1924 appears to have faded out of the picture.

How completely the League of Nations has been shoved into the background may be judged by the fact that not even Newton D. Baker now carries the banner of internationalism into the conflict. The former Secretary of War accepts the verdict of more practical politicians, that there is no need to exhume an issue which has been twice buried by the votes of millions of Americans. He has not forsaken the lost cause, but he is willing to let it slumber peacefully on. "I do not plan to try again for a plank favoring the immediate entrance into the league." said Mr. Baker at Houston. "I do not think this is the time for it. I would favor a plank urging sympathetic and effective cooperation in the task of preserving the peace of the world."

Abandonment of the league issue, and with it should go the equally obnoxious effort to commit the United States to the World Court, rids the Democratic party of a handicap which it has long shouldered. It was demonstrated even before 1920 that the United States would have none of it. The overwhelming defeat of the candidate who sought to capitalize the Wilsonian doctrine eight years ago ought to have been sufficient evidence of its rejection. The Democratic party at Madison Square Garden was too distraught to reason soundly. It is impossible otherwise to explain its desire for another referendum on a question to which the country had given unmistakable answer.

The positive value of platform declarations s often questionable, but the harm they may do when they fail to interpret public opinion has been demonstrated time and again. The idea of the League of Nations was always abhorrent to the citizens of the United States and ran counter to the traditions on which this Government had been established and maintained. Inclusion of a League of Nations plank once more could only have meant the injection of an issue from which the Democrats could expect to gain no benefits and which would alienate irrevocably large sections of the population. Under such circumstances the relinquishment of a vain hope ought to be

WHY ANOTHER STUNT?

The courts having refused to make permanent an injunction restraining the German aviatrix, Thea Rasche, from making a transatlantic flight under any management other than that which formerly backed her, and her plane North Star having been moved mysteriously from a New Jersey airport to an airfield near Three Rivers, Quebec, it seems certain that this most recent intercontinental flying expedition will get away as soon as reasonably favorable weather reports are received. The plane will be moved in a few days to Harbor Grace where it will be fueled for the long overwater flight. Miss Rasche's objective is Germany.

It is not improbable that she will be successful in the venture. Others have flown airplanes from North America to Europe. The North Star is said to be a well-built ship, fully capable of flying across the ocean provided meteorological conditions are reasonably satisfactory. Miss Rasche has adequate backing. She is a thoroughly capable pilot. She has had air experience sufficient to make her fully cognizant of the risks involved in this flight. She will not take off until after adequate preparaher adventure successfully

Yet she will gain little thereby. The North Star is a land plane, similar to all intents and purposes to the others that have been flown experimentally across the ocean. The progress of commercial transatlantic flying will not be served by the flight. Nor will Miss Rasche gain great publicity. Miss Earhart has taken the edge off women's transatlantic flights. She has been lionized as Lindbergh, the first man to fly across the Atlantic, was lionized. Those who follow in her footsteps will receive acclaim, as have those that followed Lindbergh, but it will not be vociferous or lasting.

Miss Rasche claims proudly the title "stunt This transatlantic flight will be her latest stunt. She is determined to fly to Germany. May luck be with her!

THE ROYAL LITERARY FUND.

The Royal Literary Fund of Britain came into more than usual prominence a month or so ago when the chairman of its annual dinner was Stanley Baldwin. Not for six and forty years previously had a prime minister of England presided at that function. The fund received further publicity when it was announced that a book by Mary Webb, which Mr. Baldwin had praised at the dinner, had been sold out in a few days and a new edition

The Royal Literary Fund, established in 1790 and incorporated in 1818, has done much good unobtrusively during the period of its existence. To the amount of £4,000 or £5,000 a year it makes grants to authors in need, or to the widows, children or other near relatives of deceased authors. Among those who have been the recipients of its bounty are "Bonnie Jean," the widow of Robert Burns: Chateaubriand, when he was in exile and in dire poverty; and Samuel Johnson's friend, Mrs. Charlotte Ramsay Lennox, daughter of Col. Ramsay, the last royalist governor of New York. As a rule, however, the names of beneficiaries are not made public.

This splendid organization owes its origin to a clergyman, the Rev. David Williams, Distressed when he heard of the sad fate of a fellow clergyman, who had been a writer on the philosophy of Plato, and who died in jail, a

AN AID TO AVIATION.

Several days ago officials of the Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics announced that henceforth resources of the fund would be devoted exclusively to promotion of safety in flying. The decision thus to restrict their activities was reached, it was pointed out, because of the fact that there no longer is need of the type of work that the Guggenheim Fund had been carrying on. Educational work no longer is necessary, because the Nation has become air conscious. Equipment loans and the general aid extended to aviation no longer are necessary because aviation is in a position to help itself and because private capital now feels justified in entering the field of aero-

Announcement of the formation of the National Aviation Corporation, with a capitalization of $3,500,000, to act as a financing agency for airplane enterprises follows closely the Guggenheim announcement. About 25 per cent of the group forming the corporation represents leading manufacturers of airplanes or airplane accessories; others are engaged in transport and the balance are bankers and capitalists interested in the financing of aviation activities both at home and abroad. The corporation has been formed for the purpose of using its funds "profitably by participating in the business of established concerns and by helping to finance new companies as they are organized. It is not the purpose merely to trade in and out of aviation securities, nor is it intended that the company shall control any of the major aviation enterprises of the country." Formation of the National Aviation Corporation constitutes final and definite proof that commercial aviation has arrived and is here to stay. The benefits that will accrue to the aviation industry are patent. No business can succeed in this day and age unless it has available ample credit. The National Aviation Corporation will fulfill this fuction for the industry as a whole. The corporation itself stands in a fair way to become a financial giant. Three and one-half million dollars inrested in commercial aviation this early in its development, if it is managed wisely and well, may be increased tremendously. As in any new enterprise, there is comparatively an abnormal risk involved, counterbalancing which is the general belief that commercial aviation is destined to play an important part in the general transportation scheme.

FOR PARTY UNITY.

The facility and dispatch with which Republicans can end factional strife for the sake of national party harmony was never better illustrated than through the withdrawal of Carmi Thompson from the Ohio senatorial primary. The possibilities of internal dissension in the State following the bitterness of the presidential primary were manifest. The danger to Republican success was increased by the fact that Thompson, who led the Willis forces, was slated to make the race for the Senate against Representative Theodore Burton, who was the active manager of the Hoover campaign in Ohio.

No one denies that the presidential campaign vas as bitterly fought as any in which the Republicans of Ohio have ever engaged. So intense, in fact, was the struggle that many individuals thought the wounds that had been created would not have time to heal by No-Substantiation for this conviction was seen in the fact that the two leaders intended to oppose each other again. A prolongation of the enmity might have had disastrous results. It could easily have so disrupted the party as to have played into Democratic hands in the election.

The gracious and sensible action of Thompson should remove many possibilities of party friction. Representative Burton has served his State long and honorably. He is a man of undoubted personal popularity. His presence on the ticket can not help but be helpful to the party in Ohio. It would, moreover, be a fitting tribute to return him to the body in which he already has served so well.

There is a lesson in this for those Democrats at Houston who are at the present time objecting so strenuously against bowing to the will of the majority of the party. The Republicans experienced similar trouble before deciding upon their ticket at Kansas City. Since there has been every evidence, however, that the party in power does not intend to let past differences jeopardize success in the election. The Democrats can not go home and sulk and still expect to triumph in November. They must accept the verdict of the national convention in good spirit, and make such compromises as are necessary for the good of their cause. It is not always the Democratic fashion, but it is one that it would be well for them to adopt.

The exhibition of Southern hospitality in which Houston is engaged has brought much favorable comment. The last word in courtesy appears, however, to have been shown by the bootleggers of the Texas city. One of the newspapers explains at some length that the dealers in liquid refreshment have been forced "with regret" to raise their prices. The reason given is that the demand exceeds the supply, an unforseen contingency caused by the activity of enforcement agents. One or two valuable shipments intended to slake the thirst of the delegates fell into the hands of the officials. Judging from the bootlegger's apologies, it must indeed be a fact that everybody in Houston is doing his best to help prisoner for a small debt which he could not entertain the visitors to the convention.

The developments of "sugar coating" methods came during the testimony of Earle W. ## GIRL SECRETARY IS FREED

Vienna, June 26 (A.P.).—Bela Kun, whose communist rule in Eungary several years ago resulted in upward of 1,000 executions, was convicted here tonight of belonging to a secret society and of falsely describing himself on passport by which he entered Ausimprisonment. His secretary, Miss Ilona Greur, was sentenced to one month in jali, and Georges Mayerhofer, under whose roof Bela Kun had lived here was acquitted. Mayerhofer had been charged with being an accomplice of what the authorities described as a munist plot against Hungary, but the three were tried only on the tech-dical passport question.

The two months which the prisoners spent in custody awaiting trial are to be taken into account of today's sentences. This would mean that Miss Greur will be liberated at once. Kun would serve 30 days in jail. At the end of that time he is to be deported to Russia.

Russia.

The case developed a cabinet crisis because Franz Dinghofer, minister of justice, refused to extradite Bela Kun to Hungary. So uch criticism arose that Dinghofer resigned today, and for the prince adding the prince adding the prince addington. a time it seemed as if the entire cabinet

Dinghofer accepted the post of president of the supreme court. Prime Minister Selpel agreed to take over the duties of the ministry of justice in addition to his work as federal chancelor and minister of foreign affairs. He will minister the department of justice administer the department of justice until September when a successor to Herr Dinghofer will be appointed.

Bela Kun made a bold fight to save himself from further imprisonment. For nearly nine hourts in imperfect but forcible German he argued with and shouted at the lawyers and judges. He maintained that his Communist activities were not secret and criminal. tivities were not secret and criminal but purely political.

The fiery agitator accused the judges of bullying him and of restricting his liberty of speech. He insisted that many documents put in evidence against him were forged by Hungarian police or by the Austrian attorney general. He ignored every warning from the bench against his intemperate language and turned the bitting sarcasm of his tongue on the entire governmental system of both Austria and Hungary.

Made Mutual Charges of Unfaithfulness.

Perry, Okla, June 26 (A.P.).—Emil W. Lenders, Oklai-oma artist, famed as a portrayer of buffalo life, has been granted a divorce here from Eva Lenders, of Philadelphia. Under a property settlement approved by the court, Lenders was orguage and turned the biting sarcasm of his tongue on the entire governmental system of both Austria and Hungary.

The casa has aroused bitter debate and comment in all circles. Communists have denounced the government for arresting Kun at all. Conservatives have been equally vehement in their condemnation of the cabinet course in refusing to send him to Hungary to be tried on charges of murder.

The Pan-German party, to which Dr. Dinghofer belongs, went so far as to pass a vote of no confidence in him. But the support which Dr. Dinghofer lacked from his own party he found from Chancellor Selpal and after five hours' deliberation the rest of the ministers agreed that a resignation of the entire cabinet probably would be interpreted as an admission that the government had erred in deciding on only a jail sentence and deportation for Bela Kun.

U. S. Seeks to Collect Forbes' $10,000 Fine

Chicago, June 26 (A.P.).—The United States Government is seeking in Federal Court to collect the $10,000 fine which was part of the punishment ordered for Col. Charles R. Forbes, former director general of the United States Veterans' Bureau.

The action is against the Hartford Accident & Indemnity Co., which was surety on Forbes' appeal bond. The bond was posted after Forbes' conviction in Federal Court here and provided that he "abide by" the mandate of the higher court.

The Government contends that the phraseology that he "perform the terms of the judgment and sentence against his" is susceptible only to the interpretation that the bond should cover the payment of the fine as well as guarantee Forbes' surrender to go to prison if his conviction were affirmed, as it was.

Two of his children, he declared, had lost their primitive faith. He said he did not know of a college or university in the United States to which it was safe for a good Baptist to send his children, if he wished to keep them free from the views of modernism.

Several delegates sought to refute the allegations of the father, while others supported him. For a time the chairman, the Rev. J. Asa White, of Berkeley. Calif., had difficulty in keeping order.

The Rev Mark F. Sanford, past president of the Baptist Young People of America, of Detroit, came to the defense of the colleges, and declared that the two children of the fundamentalist leader referred to, far from lesing their faith in Christ, were now doing wonderful work in church.

The extreme drys were attempting in line up support for their proposal in conference today. Gov. Moody, Daniels and Senator Glass were engaged this afternoon in perfecting a plank. The declaration in the Texas Democratic platform was used as a model. A dry plank in the Virginia State platform and plank proposed by Daniels and by the Georgia delegation also were used in redrafting the proposal.

The Texas dry plank proposes unequivocal indorsement of prohibition as written into the Constitution, and declares "Relentless opposition to any attempt to repeal it or destroy the prohibition laws." The plank further demands the faithful, strict and efficient enforcement of all laws including those in support of the eighteenth amendment.

The League of Nations plank of the 1924 platform may be among those dropped out in this manner. It is the view of the leaders that the League of Nations is no longer an issue and that it will be useless to continue the agitation for American entry into the league. Senator Glass announced his intention of offering the entire platform adopted at last week's Virginia State convention for the guidance of the resolutions committee. The Virginia enator was the chairman of the resoion and any platform drafted by him is recognized as in accord with the views of Democrats who followed the leadership of Woodrow Wilson.

VIRGINIA'S DRY PLANK DEMANDED BY GLASS

Houston, Tex., July 26 (A.P.).—Senator Carter Glass, one of the prominent figures on the platform committee, was ready tonight to insist on the inclusion of the Virginia State prohibition plank in the national platform, indorsing the eighteenth amendment by name and its enforcement acts. This question was the only thing regarded as likely to delay report on platform, unless farm relief should also bring controversy, and Senator Glass' views were certain to be challenged by Maryland and New Jersey, States seeking State rights on prohibition.

With the Smith bandwagon gathering speed, it was made certain that the Virginia and the second state of the second seco

Leaders of Smith and anti-Smith groups, however, continued to express confidence that harmony would continue in the delegation despite divergence of views. It had been agreed that Senator Swanson's vote of six Smith votes and eighteen for Cordell Hull on the first ballot would not be changed.

Smith and Brueggeman, who lives at 3211 Newark street northwest, had visited Smith's home shortly after 1 o'clock to obtain their swimming suits. Smith told his mother, Mrs J. Edgar Smith, he would return in time for dinner, and asked if he might bring Brueggeman. The men had planned to go on their vacation Saturday. They left the apartment in high spirits in anticipation of the swimming.

Smith was born in Washington, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Edgar Smith, also of the Wyoming Apartments. He was graduated from Central High School and then went to Corneil University. He had been a member of the cadet corps in both schools and at the outbreak of the World War left Cornell to attend the officers' training camp at Plattsburg. He was given the rank of second lieutenant in the Field Artillery and was at Camp Zachary Taylor, in Kentucky, until the war ended.

Following the armistice, he returned to Cornell and was graduated in 1920 with the degree of mechanical electrical engineer. He worked for the General Eiectric Co. for three years in Schenectady and Pittsburgh, and January 1 of this year was appointed a junior scientist at the Bureau of Standards. Irom Hadley Field, N. Mrs. Stillman, who became Miss Rasche's backer when the German girl broke with her former backers, said in New York she was sorry the flight could not be made from American soil, but that she couldn't "be bothered any more by petty annoyances."

"I'm doing what I think American women want me to do for this German girl," she said.

Winning Scores Were 18 Over Par, Dethroned Champ Points Out-Describes Own Poor Putting-McLeod Tells of Lucky Break.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

THE Washington golf professionals who participated in the recent national open tournament at Olympia Flelds returned to the city yesterday. Tommy Armour, who last year was welcomed in triumph at the Congressional Country Ciub as the new champion, was cordially greeted yesterday by the members, although he is a dethroned hero, and many regrets were expressed that he was not able to repeat his victory of a year ago. He proposes to leave on Sunday in company with Fred McLeod to play in the Pennsylvania State open on the Oakmont course next week.

"I was not able to repeat," he said yesterday, "because I putted miserably. I was driving well and never played my irons better, but on the putting greer I seemed to be absolutely helpless. On the third round last Saturday morning I took 41 putts. When we started on Saturday afternoon I was only one stroke behind Farrell, but I had three 3-putt greens and I missed six putts that were not over 4 or 5 feet in length.

"Will you play any exhibition matches with Farrell?"

"He was kind enough to invite me to be his partner and I have arranged to play a few matches with him. I have, however, had a strenuous year in golf and I am tired, so that I am deliberately avoiding anything that looks like a prolonged tour."

EW YORK, June 28.—George Godfrey, the big rain cloud on the heavyweight horizon, and Johnny Risko, the bulging baker boy from Cleveland, are to go through with their twice-postponed battle tomorrow night at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn. The weather forecaster has promised the elements will be favoring Promoter Fugazy for a change.

Godfrey has been greatly annoyed by the two postponemen's of last week For one thing, they prevented his taking a liesurely ocean voyage to Barceloma, for which he was booked to sall last Friday night. Then, too, the postponements meant days of additional training and the big negro does not relish work.

The delays have made a radical change in the betting. George was quoted as an 8 to 5 favorite in the original fight date; today the betting was even. Explaining this shifting of prices is not an easy matter. This writer's view is that Risko will win on points. His left nook should do the business.

If Armand Emanuel makes 175 pounds or less by 2 o clock Thursday afternoon his fight with Tommy Loughran that evening at the Garden will be recognized by the State Athletic Commission as a world's light heavyweight titular affair.

Commissioner William Muldoon to-day decreed that Loughran must make 175 pounds eight hours before the fight. What Emanuel makes is im-material to the commission but if he comes in at or under the title weight and chances to outgailop Loughran that will be the champion's hard luck.

Jimmy Johnston today filed a chal-lenge on behalf of Phil Scott seeking to meet the winner of the Tunney-Heeney affair. That places Philip about tenth on the list of challengers.

Jack Kearns has asked for ten days to think over the Walker-Lomski bout plan. Regardless of what Jack thinks Mickey will have to make the middleweight limit, whether the battle is held next month, or later, as Kearnes de-sires.

Flowers made six hits, drove in five runs and fielded brilliantly all afternoon. Farrel, at short for the Braves, was another sensational performer.

> By SHIRLEY L. POVICH (Sports Editor of The Post).

Il.TON GASTON was resurrected by Manager Harris yesterday to pitch against the Athletics, and his performance was in the nature of an awakening. Somewhere, somehow, Gaston contrived to regain the skill that was his a year ago when he was pitching with the Browns, and he presented the Nats with a three-hit performance that had much in common with the defeat of the Athletics by the small but sweet score of 4 to 1. mall but sweet score of 4 to 1.

Much as he deserved it. Gaston was lucky to win in a pitchers' duel with Eddie Rommel, because all of the four runs that the Nats scored were wordfully tainted, including two home runs. These two home runs were of prime importance, however, and were directly responsible for everything that happened in a scoring way from a Washington viewpoint. Bucky Harris was on base each time Barnes was credited with a home ruit and the Nats can thank the loose, lax and otherwise lamentable outfielding of Al Simmons and Ty Cobb for all the runs, although to credit the outfielders with errors on the circuit blows would be supercritical in that both balls tooks educated hops out of their immediate reach.

Simmons set the stage for the market of the cheap homers in the second inning when he dropped is bucky Harris fly after staggering like an inebriate to make the catch. The ball eluded him and bounced to the extreme corner of the fence and the field boxes, and Cobb's aging legs did not carry him back to that vicinity until Barnes had rounded third, well on his way to the plate. The other opponents to be met within the week—the Athletics and Yankees—are no bargains either, especially in view of Harris' rather small bitching staff. Gaston's sudden contraction of the winning complex enjoyed by his pitchling associates of late was breath-taking, but with his slow curve breaking nicely he allowed very few solid smacks, and error by Reeves robbing nim of a shuttout. Gaston's awakening follows a series of failures as a member of the Nats, finally justifying the confidence of Manager Harris, who has been giving him a regular turn on the thrilling pick-up in the ninth.

After scoring the two runs that were the gifts of Simmons and the gods in the first inning, the Nationals did not score aga'n until Barnes hit his second homer in the eight! Joe Judge opened the second with a single, but was wiped out on a double play and Rommel pitched hitless ball for five innings thereafter. A screaming double to right by Goslin broke the monotony in the seventh, but with three on base and two out, Ruel fouled to Cochrane. The Macks threatened mildly in the second when Miller singled and Boley walked with two out, but Rommel hit into a force play. They scored their only run aided by Reeves' error in the seventh when the hortstop fumbled Hale's hot grounder with one out. Halb went to third on Miller's double to center and scored on Boley's fly to Barnes. A triple to center by Cochrane in the third inning was of no avail.

"Emmet French won at least $150 by standing on the ninth green, which was especially tricky, and betting that players would not hole out in two putts. Every stroke that was not exactly right was fatal. Where you hoped to get a 4 you took 6. I was driving well, but I could not keep out of trouble. I can believe him for, although I was on the green with my tee shot and only 15 feet from the pin. I took four putts before I holed out. The cup was on a ridge and when you putted too strongly, the ball went rolling over for five or six feet and when the putt was too weak the ball came back to the spot from which it had been played."

Another favorite, Baron H. I., de Morpurgo, Italian star, swept D. H. williams, of England, out of the tournament on the same battletournament on the same battle-ground with a brilliant assortment of strokes, 6—2, 6—4, 6—2, and Rene Lacoste, mate of Cochet on the championship Davis Cup team, downed John Hawkes, left-handed Australian, 6—3, 4—6, 6—3, 6—4.

Hawkes provided the closest thing to an upset that appeared all day by giving the Frenchman's brilliant back-hand plenty of exercise. The big felow from the antipodes took the second set with his fire driving game, but little Lacoste steadled and finally tired his opponent out.

but little Lacoste steadled and finally tired his opponent out.

Tilden, leading hope of America to regain the Wimbledon championship, had little more than a canter against the neat Eurasian. Fisher. Lott's job was a bit more difficult, for he lapsed after brilliant play in the first set and clever chopping, along with a more accurate volleying attack, was necessary to put out the two deuce sets.

for the winter: but the answer of the ant sounds selish indeed.

In the real life of the insect world there are no talks between grasshoppers and ants. They go their separate ways. As a matter of fact, it is doubtful whether a grasshopper even hopes to live through the winter. When the warm weather is over its fate is to hie down and die.

Grasshoppers have six legs and four wings apiece. They can crawl, jump and fly.

While looking for something to eat, grasshoppers are in constant danger. Hawks, blackbirds and crows snap them then one is caught in a spider web.

Wasps often attack them.

Grasshoppers feed chiefly upon grass and the leaves of growing plants. Unless present in great numbers there is little cause to worry about the damage they may do Sometimes they gather in swarms of millions and fly about the country. Then they are a mighty danger to growing crops and pasture land.

Locust is another name for grasshopper; but it is commonly given to those which travel in swarms. Locusts have laid waste hundreds of square miles in Western parts. In the year 1913 locusts destroyed much of the grass and growing crops in a region of more than 400 square miles. Railroad trains were some times stopped because the engineers did not dare to drive through the masses of the insects upon the tracks.

To fight locusts farmers sometimes spray their crops with parls green or kerosene. Flocks of turkeys have also been used to advantage. When let loose upon the locusts they gobble in earnest.

I have always been dementia praceox, I have always been dementia praceox. moron was to include that group of the feeble-minded who have a mentality from 7 to 12, not all persons from 7 to 12. We have the condition that some people with mentality of from 7 to 12 are subnormal and not feeble-minded. The distinction between subnormal and feeble-mindedness is the difference in their ability to take care of themselves. Feeble-mindedness has always included not only the mental level, but the inability to get along in the world, manage their own affairs with ordinary prudence, and compete with their normal fellows. Many people of a mentality of 7 to 12 are able to manage their own affairs and compete in the struggle for existence unless, in addition to their low mentality, they are handicapped by other disadvantageous traits.

In the classification of the feeble-minded it has become universally accepted that those persons with a mentality of 2 years or less are to be designated as idiots, those of 2 to 7, inclusive, as imbeciles, and those from 8 to 12 as morons.

On top of all this, I think I love this fellow. When away from him, he is constantly on my mind. We have had some wonderful times together, and I enjoy myself when I'm in his company. But he does not know what respect for a woman is.

I know I am a fool, but I just can't make myself break with him. It seems as though I am under some power of his. I am not exactly a wicked girl, Miss McDonald, us I don't smoke, or drink, or even go to dances, and and allout this man? You say that for months, and he begs me not to be afraid of him, but, I just can't be getting all nervous and worked up when we go out, as I do not know what to expect.

Is there any way in which I can regain my trust in this young man?
Miss McDonald, I know this is terribly long, but please try to make heads or tails of it, and send me some kind of advice as I am worried sick.

I wonder if you know anything at all bout this man? You say that for months he has met your requirements of conduct. Probably ever since he discovered that there really were requirements?

You may some day love this man. He may some day love you. At present, you are merel: cruelly baiting each other. When you begin to seek the fine things hidden deep, the real things, you may find a basis for mutual respect for woman is.—

So, he does not know what respect for woman is,—and you love him! What do you mean that this is the man in whom you would look for character in your children? Do you mean that he is the man you want to look to for the man you want to look to for woman is. And you have been "going" with him for three years.

I wonder if you know anything at about this man? You say that for months he has met your requirements of conduct. Probably ever since he discovered that there really were requirements?

You may some day love this man. He may some day love busin to ever the three years. "BLLE"

A pronounced tendency on the part of the French franc to rise, coupled with weakness in sterling and guilders featured foreign exchange dealings. The franc was active and sold as high as 3,931/4, but closed at 3,937/6 for cables. The stabilization rate is 3,9184, and yesterday's high was 3,931/4 cents. The slump in sterling amounted to a full ½ cent and likewise the further decline of 11/2 cents in guilders was attributed to the tightness of the money market here, which appears to be such as to bring funds here from other countries. Elsewhere most fluctuations in European rates were small but downward. Canadian dollars remained depressed, with reports of further dealings at a discount as great as 17-64, with no gold reported on the way from Ottawa to this center. Argentine pesos touched a new low for the year, more than 20 points under the 1928 high.

New York, June 26 (A.P.) .- Trading was more active, but price movements were decidedly irregular on the bond market today. Renewed strength of stocks probably inspired the firmer market today. Renewed strength of stocks probably inspired the firmer tone noticeable throughout the day, while increase of the call money rate to 7 per cent and maintenance of time money at the 5% level tended to restrict and unsettle trading.

Industrials became firm in late trading, with Anaconda Copper 7s advancing more than 2 points, and Central Steel 8s moving to 124, the year's peak. Pathe Exchange 7s, with warrants, and Schulco 6½ s B also registered good gains. However, Pierce Arrow 8s, which have been gaining on the strength of the pending merger with Studebaker, sold down nearly 2 points. United States Rubber 5s, Standard Oil of New Jersey 5s, Dodge Bros. debenture 6s and Youngstown Sheet & Tube 5s also closed lower.

Rails reflected the irregularity of the general list. The St. Paul issues improved, the 5s of 2000 advancing more than a point, and gains were made also by some New York tractions, Western Pacific first 5s, and Seaboard Air Line 6s, New Haven 6s and Michigan Central 4s moved to the low of the year.

The foreign list was steady, with Buenos Aires 6s and Meridionale Electric 7s prominent in the advance.

United States Government obligations were inclined to heaviness, nearly every issue dropping to levels around the minimum for the year. Treasury 4½s reached a new year's low at 113.

Public offering is expeted shortly of 810,000,000 in convertible debenture bonds of the newly organized Colon Oil Corporation and 89,000,000 in bonds of the municipality of Medellin, Colombia. The Medellin bonds will carry 6½ per cent coupons, as compared with 8 per cent for that of 1923 dollar loan and 7 per cent for that of 1926.

Your July Funds

How Much do You Expect for Them?

For the Consideration of those who Value their Money

TULY re-investment presents a more than usually diffi-J cult problem this year. High-grade bonds of true investment character-such, for instance, as the more desirable rails and utilities-are being issued at coupon rates of from 4% to 41/2%. The better municipals are offering even less. Even industrial bonds of a sort not generally regarded as of true investment grade, are offering less than 5%.

Many an investor, therefore, will feel that he must be prepared to sacrifice either income or safety.

This, however, is not the case. Shannon & Luchs First Mortgage Notes offer him as great-or greatersecurity than the ordinary high-grade rails and utilities. At the same time they offer the extremely generous yield of 6%.

It will pay you to make immediate inquiries regarding these Notes-which are direct first liens against valuable real estate in the better residential and business districts of Washington.

DISTRICT STOCKS STRONG

By F. W. PATTERSON.

The 1,000,000 car mark for the fourth week so far this year was accomplished in the loading of revenue freight for the week ended June 16, with total loadings amounting to 1,003,292 cars, according to announcement yesterday by the American Railway Association.

Compared with the preceding week, this was an increase of 7,332 cars, due principally to the heavier loading of miscellaneous freight, although there also were increases reported in the number of cars loaded with coke, forest products and merchandise less than carload lot freight. The total for the week of June 15, was a decrease, however, of 13,187 cars below the corresponding week in 1927 as well as a decrease of 33,531 cars compared with the corresponding week in 1928.

The Central Western and Southwestern were the only districts to report increases in the total loading of all commodities compared with the corresponding week last year, decreases being reported in the Eastern, Allegheny, Pocahontas, Southern and Northwestern while all districts except the Northwestern reported decreases compared with the corresponding period two years ago.

Securities Buying Increases,

Securities Buying Increases.

Annual purchases of securities, excluding issues for refunding purposes, increased from $4,273,139,000 in 1922 to $7,735,326,000 in 1927, according to a statistical comparison just issued by Stein Bros. & Boyce, Baltimore. This comparison shows an increase in the sales of life insurance from $50,290,-710,180 in 1922 to $78,492,142,287 in 1926 and an increase in savings deposits from $17,578,920,000 in 1922 to $26,090,-902,000 in 1927.

In summarizing the Stein Bros & Boyce statement says: "The total savings of the country showed large increases during the past six years, in spite of the large finances required for the expansion of the Nation's business. In addition, increasingly large sums were invested annually in new securities and life insurance. We can not help but feel that the price of money will gradually cheapen over the long swing, and it will be reflected in further decreased yields on bonds and high-grade investment stocks."

Princeton senior, who wasn't even on the team a year ago, stole the show today in the opening eighteen holes of the intercollegiate golf championship by turning in a dazzling par 72 to lead the field of 86 by 3 strokes.

With the aid of Youngs' great performance Princeton got away to a flying start in defense of its team champlonship, leading Georgetown by strokes and Yale by 12. Princeton's entire six-man team kept below 80 and the scores of its four leaders, which are counted in figuring the team standand the scores of its four leaders, which are counted in figuring the team standings, gave the champions 302, while Georgetown finished the day with 311 for second place and Yale was third, with 314. Next in order were Union. 321; Pennsylvania. 323; Ohio State, 324; Harvard, 326; Dartmouth. 338; Colgate, 341; Penn State, 345, and University of Washington, 347.

Another eighteen holes of medal play tomorrow will decide the winning team and complete the qualifying round for the individual championship for which the 32 low-est scorers in the first two days' play will survive.

Although Youngs is the No. 3 man on the team and never played for Princeton before this year, he was in a class by himself today, finishing three full strokes ahead of his nearest rival, while Watts Gunn, of Georgia Tech, the defending champion, was tied with several others at 7T. Youngs' brilliant round tied the course record held by Ellis Knowless forms. Value size held by Ellis Knowles, former Yale star held by Ellis Knowies, former lase because well as equaling par, and made him one of the favorites for the individual championship along with Gunn and championship along with Gunn and Maurice McCarthy, of Georgetown, who had a 75 today.

had a 75 today.
Youngs played today with a steadiness which seemed to indicate that his 72, while the best he ever produced in tournament play, was no mere flash in the pan. He started off poorly, going out in 2 over par, but coming in 2 under, to the tune of a trio of birdies

Watts Gun, Bobby Jones' re-doubtable fellow Georgian, also got a poor start and bad luck bobbed up here and there to keep him 5 strokes above par figures.

He topped his tee shot into a trap on he first hole to take a 6 and did the ame on the seventeenth. His putting, oo, was a bit off, and he needed 3 on he thirteenth green. A flash of brillance came on the sixteenth, where he irove 215 yards to the green and sank 20-foot putt for a birdle 2. Behind Youngs and ahead of Gunn oday came Alfred G. Sargent, of Ohio state: John B. Stevens, of Princeton: Maurice McCarthy, of Georgetown, and aodney Coltart, of Pennsylvania, each with a 75. Seventy-seven was a popular score and there were nine cards at that figure, including Gunn's.

In addition to Young with his 72 In addition to Young with his 72 and Stevens' 75. Princeton had a 27 by C. B. Grace and a 78 by William Pond to give it the scoring lead. J. G. Jones. another Princetonian, had 78, which could not be counted, as the first four only are taken, while Jack Ames, No. 1 man, turned in a 79.

L. S. Jadwin, also of Princeton, had 77, but was not a member of the Bad luck trailed Church Hunter, of the University of Washington, Pacific Coast champion, on the incoming nine holes, after he had shot a beautiful par 36 on the way out. With two sevens and a six on the last nine, his total climbed to 81.

3 Choices Survive In Buffalo Tourney

In Buffalo Tourney

Buffalo, N. Y., June 26 (A.P.).—
Three favorites survived the first round of match play in the eighth annual invitation women's golf tournament at the Buffalo Country Club today although one of the trie barely succeeded in edging out a victory.

Miss Glenna Collett, of Providence, R. I., former national champion, who needed 43 for the first nine holes of her match with Miss Alice Beadlestone, of New York, and had trouble on the inward journey, went to the final green before she triumphed. 2 up.

Here Miss Collett's third shot was dead to the pin, but she missed an easy put. The five, however, was good enough to win.

Displaying the finest golf of the day's play, Miss Maureen Orcutt, of Englewood, N. J., another favorite, turned in a card of 38 for the outward nine and eliminated Miss Maude Ross, of Ottawa. Ont., on the eleventh green, 9 and 7.

The third of the trio Miss Virginia Van Wie, Chicago star, who won the tournament last year easily disposed of Miss Ann Jeannett Hunter, of Pittsburgh. The match ended on the twelfth green, the Chicago girl winning, 8 and 6.

GOLF AS CHAMPIONS PLAY IT

By TOMMY ARMOUR, Canadian Open, National Open, Long Beach Open, El Paso Open Char: "to shlps, 1927; Oregon Open Champion, Pressing is caused by a desire to hit he ball hard in order to attain great distance. Usually the player steps up to the tee, grips his club too hard, sets his teeth firm and then slams away at the ball. When you do this, you swing the bail. When you do this, you swing back too fast and thereby lose control. Then you swing down too fast and as a consequence the club head turns over on the ball, driving it into the ground instead of lofting it. Most frequently pressing comes when a golfer attempts to outdrive the player who preceded him.

CLOSE GAMES IN FRENCH LEAGUE

Two of Opening Day Contests Decided by One Run.

S PECTACULAR relief pitching by Hurier Virnstein, of the Tris Speakers, featured the games in the French Insect League which opened yesterday. Against the Corinthian Cubs, Virnstein stepped into the picture in the seventh inning, relieving Valentine, and huried airtight ball to aid his team in its 10 to 9 victory over the Corinthians.

Six other games were played and all were spirited. The Monarchs defeated the Yankees, 8 to 5; the Cardinals wiped out the Apaches 7 to 1; the Webboo's handed the Calhouns a 6 to 1 trouncing while the Senators barely nosed out the Jewish Community Center nine, 8 to 7.

The Brookland Boys Club had an easy time with the Lionels, 10 to 3, while rounding out the collection of games was the Corinthians' overwhelm-Ing defeat over the Postons by a 25 to 6 score. In this latter tilt the Corinthians scored 12 runs in the seventh inning to break up the game. Follow-will close the opera season on the radio with Verdi's "The Masked Ball" at 9:30 o'clock, through Station WRC.

Recently, however, when sweeping the Mersey for a sunken barge, a local tender struck the lost craft. Modern salvage apparatus reclaimed her, and today she is none the worse for her long sleep in Davy Jones' locker, and is holding her own against more modern racers in the Mersey.

The opera is in three acts and was first produced in Rome in 1859. Productions followed in Paris, London and New York in 1861. Frequent revivals in New York City have taken place since then, many with the late Enrico Caruso as Richard.

The cast will include the following well-known soloists of the National Grand Opera Company.

Richard, Count of Warwick and Govarnor of Boston, Julian Oliver, tenor; Reinhart, Richard's secretary, Ferruccio Corradetii; Amelia, wife of Reinhart, Astrid Fjelde; Ulrica, a negress, Devora Nadworney, and Tomasco, an enemy, John Oakley.

The scene of the opera originally was bald in Naples, but for political reasons was later changed to Boston. Scenes are supposed to take place in the late seventeenth or early eighteenth century. The second of the new series of broadcast, known as "Venetian Nights," will be broadcast at 7:30 o'clock tonight. Radio listeners will be taken on another 'gliding trip down the Grand night. Radio listeners will be taken on another gliding trip down the Grand Canal of Venice and will again hear the

The closing selection will be "Let Me Dream Again," by Sir Arthur Sullivan.

The Brunswick Panatrope Hour of Music will be put on the air from WMAL at 7:30 o'clock. A half hour program by the "Silver String Revelers," presented by Jack Mullane, will follow. "National Representation in the District," by Paul E. Lesh, will be the subject of a 15 minute talk.

parachute. A Swedish mechanic, who thinks he can hurry the repair work, has asked permission to attempt a landing by parachute. His superiors are a bit doubtful about this scheme, as any mishap would result only in another injured person for them to save. Besides this half dozen near Foyn Ieland, account is sought for ten others of the crew of the Italia. Three of these started to walk to land from Nobile's camp on May 30, several days before radio communication was established with Kings Bay.

Seven other members of the Italia crew were carried away when the bag of the Italia bounded into the Arctic murk after the gondola, with Nobile and his party was torn loose. There may be only six of these survivors. A seemingly well-founded report is current that Vincenzo Pomella, motor attendant, was thrown from the forward compartment and killed.

seemingly well-founded report is current that Vincenzo Pomella, motor at tendant, was thrown from the forward compartment and killed.

The rescuers and Arctic experts still are hoping that trace will be found of Roald Amundsen and the five men with him in the big Latham French, seaplane. The sea routes which they should have followed from the Norwegian coast to Kings Bay have been throroughly combed by vessels and from the air without results. Search is now being switched to more remote waters and to the isolated fjords of the deeply indented coast line of the archipplago.

Fleharty said that divergent positions taken by civic organizations in the District on the proposed street car merger agreement indicated that the public's interests in utility questions are not always easy to determine, and that he must judge of them to the best of his ability. The following is the text of Fleharty's letter:

Text of Ilis Letter.

"Your letter of June 18, which has already been given wide publicity in the local papers and variously described by them as a 'warning' or 'advice' from you as to how I should fulfill the duties of my official position, was not received by me until the afternoon of June 23.

ceived by me until the afternoon of June 23.

"I would say that substantially your interpretation of the act of Congress creating the office of people's counsel concides with my conception of the duties of that position.

"However, the divergent position taken most recently by the organized divic associations of the District of Columbia when the Public Utilities Commission and Congress had for consideration the proposec merger or unification agreement of the local transportation companies only go to show that there may exist a very wide difference of opinion as to what may be the 'public's interests which you state in your letter should be considered by me not from a judicial standpoint but as an 'active advocate of the public's interests."

"While there does not exist as full cooperation between this office and some of the civic organizations as I is should like, I believe that I am in a position to ascertain and judge as well as any one the general trend of public sentiment towards issues raised by applications concerning the service furnished by public utilities
"In any event, I am in a position where I must of necessity, because of the divergence of public opinion before referred to, exercise to some extent my own judgment and discretion as to the proper position to he taken in such matters.

"Let me assure you that so far as the pending application by the Capital Traction Co. for increase of fare is concerned I conceive the public's interest to require that I oppose same to the best of my ability

"Might I suggest that if not beyond the scope of his employment the coperation of Mr. Maltble recently employed by your committee to make an investigation and report on the proposed unification agreement of the local transportation companies, might be of substantial assistance in my opposition to said application."

By JOHN J. DALY

Not since the Copley Square Players are labored in Boston revived Jerome K. Jerome's generation ago. They were, of course, a more naive lot than those of today.

If, as De Wolf Hopper himself expressed it in one of those inimitable footlight chats, the engagement of his company "had to end some time," it is indeed a happy circumstance that so delightful a vehicle as "The Prince of Plisen" was chosen for the farewell week at Poli's. It was erroneously stated in the columns of The Post Sundance of Education. Mrs. Hodgkins as a member of the board.

Lionel Genister played with the late John Drew and Mrs. Leslie Carter in "The Creaking Chair," as now the work readvertised for new bids. Contracts were awarded to O. R. Evans & Brother, Inc., for electric liberities. The National Theolegal Players are played to the maid in "The Creaking Chair," as more maive lot than those of today.
